How women can make a difference in their community

presented by Louise Durack,
Labor Candidate for Ocean Reef

Louise is a member of the pioneering Durack family who opened up the Kimberley region to agriculture, and who have contributed substantially to the arts in Western Australia.

Through her profession as a social worker in the northern suburbs, Louise Durack has come to understand the problems faced by women at risk and their families. As a passionate advocate for healthy lifestyles, Louise has also worked on developing programs to assist women to overcome eating disorders and on fitness programs for seniors.

Louise has now turned her attention to politics and is standing as the Labor candidate for Ocean Reef. Based on her experience of working in the community, and now in the political arena, Louise will share her thoughts with us about how women can make a real difference in local communities.
